

Ottawa, Week by Week

(By M. L. SCHWARTZ)

Drew and Duplessis

For some time now there has been a flood of speculation along Parliament Hill about the possibility that the supporters of Premier Drew of Ontario and Premier Duplessis of Quebec are going to work together, in order to launch an all out attack upon the present government, forces when the next general elections are held, either in 1949 or shortly thereafter, with the gossip behind the scenes of the Progressive-Conservative convention here peculiarly full of such stories, about a coming pose, Drew-Duplessis alliance in the near future, ever since it became known that Premier Drew was willing to discuss the ideas of the Progressive-Conservative party.

However, experienced political observers along the Hill do not appear enthusiastic about the possibility of such a combination, though both leaders have been personally good friends and may have seen eye-to-eye on many points of the Ottawa regime. The common dislike of both Drew and Duplessis of the present policies in Ottawa is admitted by all. Nevertheless, it is emphasized by those who know their federal politics that Drew and Duplessis are difficultly opposed to each other's viewpoints on some highly important policies of their own. Drew favors large scale British immigration, British industrial establishments moving into Canada, British Imperialism, and other policies, which Duplessis may not find as popular within his own political camp.

In reverse, some of Duplessis' policies are not in accord with what Drew's ardent supporters favor. In short, in the provincial fields in accord to oppose the present regime in Ottawa seemed possible, but it would be an entirely different story in the federal field, so that there is a strong inclination among experienced political observers along Parliament Hill to discount heavily the flood of stories about a Drew-Duplessis axis operating in the next general election, even if behind the scenes of the Progressive-Conservative convention there has been no let up on speculation about it.

Top Level Talks

There are hints backstage in this nation's capital, that there is much more at stake in the discussions which have taken place here between Britain's chancellor of the exchequer and economic czar Sir Stafford Cripps accompanied by no less than eight treasury officials, and senior members of the Canadian cabinet as well as high financial experts of the Canadian government. Indeed, these hints are that some of the immediate or called financial problems of mutual concern to the two governments, are not as important as they may seem to be in the headlines, compared with other bigger issues arising out of the gradual, continuous process of trading relations between Canada and Britain since the end of hostilities of World War II.

Though the general public of this nation may not realize it at present, yet it has been known in this nation's capital that the trade relations between Canada and Britain have moved from bad to worse in this crucial post-war period, with no evil intentions on the part of either country to allow such deterioration to develop. It just happened, through events both here and in the United Kingdom. Up to this time Sir Stafford Cripps' talks here, it was known in this capital these developments were causing confusion and anxiety, especially since Canada needed British trade and Britain needed Canadian trade. Still, the artificial barriers of finance, economics, and currency restrictions were slowly making things worse and worse.

It may even be reported that several developments seemed to be particularly disliked here, such as the newly disclosed British-Russian trade pact, the slow but sure deterioration of British imports from Canada to conserve dollars, the British policy on sterling conversion, the skyrocketing of prices for British goods, which had to come from Britain since they were banned from the United States, the big obstacle to British firms establishing branch plants in Canada on account of Britain's ban on the export of capital, and others.

Therefore, it is hinted now that Sir Stafford Cripps' personal visit to this capital was, in reality, aimed to smoothen out these over all obstacles to trade with Canada, rather than to merely solve technical problems which task could easily have been accomplished by a top ranking British financial expert, so that his talks with Canadian cabinet ministers may bring some important developments shortly.

Let us raise a standard to which the wise and honest can repair."

THE WORLD OF WHEAT

By R. G. L. Strango
Director, Research Department, Sirle Grain Co. Ltd.

The Unwanted Surplus Of Registered Seed

There is today a large unwanted surplus of Registered seed in the prairie provinces. For the past two years there has been a great demand from European countries for Canadian seed wheat, because the inclement weather had destroyed the European crops, so there is apparently no demand from them for any Canadian seed wheat.

What to do, then, with this surplus of Registered seed, which is many times in excess of the quantities purchased by prairie farmers? It would be a very great pity if this high class material, which has passed field inspection, were merely to be hauled to elevators to be used as bread wheat. Every bushel of this good seed should be used for prairie crop improvement. Several years ago an opportunity occurred to secure so much seed, and at reasonable prices, to improve the quality of Canadian crops, and so to improve the quality of Canadian wheat on world's markets.

Next week I will discuss a plan that has been suggested, by which this valuable Registered seed wheat could be made available to Canadian farmers.

Consider U.S. Floor Prices

With the prospect of the United States government having to pay $18 billion to keep prices of agricultural products from falling below fixed levels, officials are reported to be discussing possible cuts in farm support prices. Any change would have to be made by Congress, and does not meet until January.

Loans at 90 per cent of parity are being extended by the Commodity Credit Corporation on about two-thirds of the U.S. wheat crop.

Wedding Bells

Sinclair-Walker

A quiet wedding took place on September 19 in Grace Presbyterian Church, Delia, when Jeanne Pearle, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Walker, of Edinburg, Calgary, and son of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Sinclair, of Hanna, exchanged marriage vows. Rev. Allan Hays officiated.

Escorted to the altar by Mr. Norman King, the bride looked charming in a floor length gown of white satin, with net yoke and lily point sleeves. Her long veil was held in place by a beaded halo. She carried a shower bouquet of red roses. Mrs. Robert Sinclair, who wore pale pink sheer and carried a shower bouquet of white carnations, attended the bride, and Mr. Robert Sinclair, cousin of the groom, was best man.

Following the reception, the happy couple left by car for Edmonton, via Banff and Jasper. For going away, the bride wore a grey pin stripe suit (a match of the groom's), with black accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Sinclair will reside in Delia.

Robertson-Marshall

A wedding of wide interest was solemnized at the Holy Family Church, Delia, on Wednesday morning, September 22, when Catherine Marshall, fifth daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Marshall, was united in marriage to Malcolm Elmer, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Robertson, of Hartell. Rev. Father Kennedy, of Hanna, officiated, and the church was beautifully decorated with a wide variety of late summer blooms.

The bride, entering the church on the arm of her father, was attired in a floor length gown of white satin, styled with gathered skirt at bodice and accented by rows of lace and with a sweetheart neckline. The long sleeves were lily pointed and her shoulder length veil fell from a Queen Anne crown head-dress. She carried a bouquet of sweet-heart roses.

Miss Lorraine Marshall, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and wore a pink sheer floor length gown, with matching head-dress and carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations.

The bridesmaids were Miss Josephine Marshall and Miss Mary De Mott, attired in pink and blue sheer floor length gowns respectively, with matching head-dresses, and they also carried bouquets of pink and white carnations.

Julius Marshall, cousin of the bride, was groomsmen, while Ivan Long and Harry Robertson attended the groom.

The wedding mass was given by the Sisters of Charity, from the Hanna parish, who also sang during the ceremony, accompanied by the solo, "Ave Maria," sang by Mrs. Olson, of Michichi.

Following the service, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where forty or more guests sat down to a table laden with a four-tiered wedding cake flanked by pink and white streamers and masses of flowers in pastel shades of pink, blue and yellow.

The bride and groom were assisted in receiving the guests by the bride's mother, who chose a black figured dress with matching black hat, and a corsage of white carnations.

After Kennedy proposed the bride's consent, to which the groom responded, and then the toast to the King was made by Mr. Albert Marshall.

The bride and groom left later for a short honeymoon spent in Calgary and Hartell, and then on to Hanville where they will reside. For travelling, the bride wore a green suit, with black accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

YOUR CROP OF THE FUTURE

DEVELOPING harder strains of extraordinary grain... overcoming the ravages of rust... weeding out weeds against insect pests... battling to eradicate or control weeds... there has been no respite through the past half century for the scientific agriculturist, the forward looking farmer, or the whole-wide firm whose business is integrated with the production and marketing of grain in Western Canada.

One of the most important phases of this research is striving for better crops in the present-day development of weed control. A pioneer in this field, and proud of it, is the National Grain Company Limited, which through its Agricultural Department, working with Governments and Universities, has carried on an unceasing research, their methods of application, their effects upon weeds and crops.

In a recent issue of Life Magazine (August 30th, 1948), a full page illustration in color pictures a remarkable demonstration of the effectiveness of chemical weed control by spraying growing cereals with 2-4-D. The Minnesota and the Dakota. The National Grain Co. Ltd. has carried out in Canada the identical program of chemical weed control. Life Magazine has so well recognized in the United States. The same chemicals were used in both programs.

Crop yields have been materially increased through this method of chemical weed control, but much work must still be done. The field of research and field testing of equipment, before the planners of today can rest from their labors to improve the crop of tomorrow. The Agricultural Department will continue its activities in every development phase of chemical weed control.

Keep in touch with your local agent for the latest information on the latest equipment crop-debarring farm weeds.

MONEY INFLATION

CONTINUES

The most recent figures from the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reveals the usual month by month advance in the cost of living index.

While it is true the general all round rise was not as great as has been the case in the earlier months of 1948, nevertheless, the fact that food costs have jumped for ahead, comparatively, in relation to other commodities is sufficiently disturbing.

Moreover, there are indications contained in market reports that some of these other commodities, themselves, are due for a boost upward; notably, in the boot and shoe trades.

It may, or may not be a comfort for Canadians to reflect that they are not alone sufferers in this giddy round of monetary inflation, which already has wiped out close to half of their bond investments and other small savings they have accumulated in the past, and may yet impair the stability of the remainder.

Writing in the London Sunday Times, under the title, "Sour Thoughts," the financial editor, Geo. L. Schwartz, concludes his remarks by observing: "If the richest country in the world cannot or will not curb its inflation, what can be expected from the rest? At this stage, concludes an United States review, "the dollar is all out of kilter and maybe out of hand." Heaven knows what kilter is, but the review prognosticates that the price trend will continue upward into 1949. Later on—next year —buying power will be stretched to the limit and the boom will be tested.

"Later on will probably be too late for the rest of us. This is the moment for the country to dig its money heels in. We will be able to, will it want to? I greatly appreciate this generation of money savers has had."
What can a small saver do? The fact of this outlook? Nothing?
"Great Heaven," exclaimed an English visitor to a Continental country, appalled by the plight of the classes, ruined by inflation.
"What happens to these people?"
"They die," said the Commisar blandly, "they die off."

LOOKING FOR THE ANSWER

TO COMMUNISM

People are finally waking up to the fact that communism is not merely a political or an economic system, but an ideology.
You can't shoot an idea, buy it off, or out-manoeuvre it politically. Spy scares, and a real rash of hysteria don't deal with it either.

Too few people see it as a part of the deadly cancer of materialism which has thrived on democracy's apathy and softness. Men have sold their souls and their nations to communism because they have seen no better way to answer the class hatred of our age. In the great democracies of the world that is a "strange paradox." Now our statement awake to find themselves on the defensive.

John Foster Dulles put his finger on the answer when he said: "The communist problem cannot be solved by trying to crush communism by force." The solution is for those who have faith to exert themselves vigorously to translate their faith into works. Few people realize that the real weakness is of the soft under-belly of communism.

Dr. Chen Li-fu, vice-president of the Chinese parliament, summed up his observations after a tour of America and Europe interviewing presidents, prime ministers, and cabinet ministers.
"The most effective answer to communism is the moral force of a superior ideology which is the basis of democracy. With this I have seen how communists can be changed. A moral rearmament of the democracies will be their surest way to answer this danger and win over the communists."

The vice-president said that he had seen during his tour the need for a number of changes in his government, and himself, that "would make democracy in China more effective." He also said he hoped the next session of parliament, beginning September 1st, would initiate new steps in that direction.

For a nation that now spends 80 per cent of her national budget fighting an ideology—communism—the armament of a superior moral ideology holds the key to victory.

Don't try to get the best of the other fellow. Try to bring out the best.

Local and District

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Geddis and family spent the week end at Banff.

Lester Battle has left for Victoria, B.C. to attend the wedding of his brother.

Mrs. V. Bars left on Monday for Edmonton, where she will join her brother, A. C. McColl, on a motor trip into northern Alberta.

The first frost of the season struck village gardens in the early hours of Friday last, following a light rain shower on Thursday afternoon. However, skies cleared and fine weather continued.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Fitzsimmons received word that their daughter, Marguerite, has been awarded a bursary by the government of Alberta, which gives her a year's training in Public Health Administration at the University of Toronto, Ontario.

Miss Norma Walker and Mrs.
S. P. Sparks, of Victoria, B.C., were visiting at the home of Mr.

and Mrs. R. A. Macpherson over the week end. Also, Mr. and Mrs. Symonds and family, of Calgary, spent Sunday at the Macpherson home.

Mrs. P. W. Benson has just returned from a week's visit with her daughter, Mrs. R. M. Farwell, of Victor. While in the district, Mrs. Benson called on several old-time neighbors of the farm home on which she resided forty years ago.

Despite what had generally been considered a poor crop year —due to a lack of rainfall—the Delia district is recording heavy yields in many sections. On one quarter of the J. D. McKay farm, now owned by L. E. Larder, it is reported by Alex. Bolduc that on a strip spring sown to government approved "Elite" Thatcher wheat the yield was 40 bushels to the acre; the average yield per acre for the remainder of the crop is stated to be around thirty bushels. Next year, Mr.
Larder intends to have sown on fifty acres of summer-fallow a further quantity of Registered Thatcher wheat.

The right time to do the right thing is right now.

HERE'S WHERE WE STAND ON THE SELLING

General Motors Dealers' "Foursquare Selling Policy" assures you a Fair Deal when you buy a new car

Let's bring this subject right out in the open.

Many conditions still exist which encourage the "gray marketing" of automobiles.

You don't like this — neither do we.

There's no law against "under the counter" deals — demanding a bonus for early delivery.

There's no law against loading cars with accessories the customer doesn't want or need.

There's no law against selling to buyers who make it their business to resell new cars at inflated prices.

But we don't do it because it's not good business.

All dealers buy cars at clearly established factory prices which with the exception of transportation, are the same, model for model, all over the country.
All start on a fair and equal basis — and should therefore sell at this fair and reasonable delivered prices.

So we're making public announcement of our code of fair dealing.

Our foursquare selling policy, simply stated, is this:

1 NO PADDING OF PRICES

We guarantee our delivered prices to conform with the manufacturer's recommendation and to contain nothing but standard charges which, of course, include Sales and Service Taxes. You receive an itemized bill of all prices and we "Open Book" — they are available to you and we sell at these listed figures.

2 NO LOADING OF UNWANTED ACCESSORIES

All cars are offered with factory-installed accessories only and prices are figured to cover these. We pledge ourselves to add no "extras" except those on customer orders — and to avoid using "extras" to increase the delivered price.

3 TRADE-INS DESIRED — BUT NOT COMPULSORY

We will take your order for future delivery, without requiring a trade-in. However, we have many valued used-car customers who also depend upon us to supply them with automobiles.
For this reason we would like to have your trade-in, and we'll give you a fair and reasonable allowance for it.

4 NO COLLUSION

While we cannot prevent our customers from reselling new cars, we will not knowingly be a party to such transactions. Our only interest is to deliver new cars to bona fide customers.

We present this platform because we believe it's good business to keep our customers informed.

It's a platform that gives you a fair deal when you buy a new car — exactly the same kind of a deal and treatment you got before the war.

If you with additional information, it will gladly be supplied by any dealer whose name is signed to this announcement.
